They are open not only to our clients but also to their colleagues and other contacts. All events are designed to be friendly and interactive. We would also be delighted if you would join us afterwards for drinks so that everyone gets a chance to meet and to talk to each other informally.

We do hope you can join us.

ENVIRONMENT SEMINAR: EPR Enforcement Inquiries

The speakers

JOHN BATES

John was one of the first members of the Bar to specialise in environmental law and is ranked in the legal directories as a leader in the field: "He shows excellent attention to detail and is always prepared to think outside the box", "His judgement makes him a go-to man". He has written extensively on the subject, including 'UK Marine Environmental Law', 'UK Waste Law' and the loose leaf work 'Water and Drainage Law'; he is also co-author of 'Liability for Environmental Harm'.

MALCOLM GALLOWAY

Malcolm is ranked in the legal directories for his work in environmental law, particularly on the criminal and health and safety side. He has extensive experience representing both the Environment Agency and corporate and individual defendants in a wide range of disputes, including prosecutions in respect of major pollution incidents, permit breaches, marine regulation prosecutions, the release of hazardous or noxious substances and cases relating to the escape of controlled waste.

DAVID CUNNINGTON

David has extensive experience in a wide range of regulatory and environmental proceedings ranging from planning inquiries and permitting disputes to criminal enforcement in regulatory actions. He recently appeared at the planning inquiry in to the construction of the Barton Renewable Energy Plant and acted in JR proceedings in matters related to the Town and Country Planning (Fees for Applications, Deemed Applications, Requests and Site Visits) (England) Regulations 2012.

LANCE HARRIS

After finishing his degree in Environmental Science, Lance spent two years as an environmental consultant at Mouchel, where he was regularly involved in projects relating to Environmental Impact Assessments, contaminated land, air quality and drainage law, before joining the Bar. As a barrister, he has dealt with appeals against noise abatement notices and appears in the magistrates' and crown courts representing companies charged with environmental and health and safety offences.

SOPHIE BEESLEY

Sophie joined Chambers upon successful completion of her pupillage in October 2014. She is keen to develop a practice in environmental law and has spent time shadowing more senior members of the team and already has experience dealing with case management hearings and trials in the magistrates' court.

Old Square Chambers' SHE Team is comprised of a group of highly regarded specialists whose collective experience enables us to provide advice and advocacy on a wide range of disputes, from civil litigation to criminal and regulatory proceedings.

Our team is recognised in the legal directories for having "real depth of expertise in environment matters." Our members "undertake a wide variety of work, including nuisance cases, the defence and prosecution of criminal environment cases, contaminated land and group action cases." We are "the go-to set for reliable, client friendly and no-nonsense counsel." Legal 500
